

Jazz + Blues - Jazz Thrives in Chicago (46-51)

By: Matija Benko

JAZZ + BLUES & The Cradle of Jazz

- Jazz is broad & has lots of styles(most accessible being early styles)
 - “New Orleans jazz,” “Dixieland,” & “Chicago jazz”
- Sidney Story shoved prostitution to one part of NO in 1897(“Storyville”)
- Music used as bait(competition with each other)
 - Solo pianists
 1. Cornet, trombone, clarinet
 2. piano/banjo/guitar
 3.  /tuba & drums

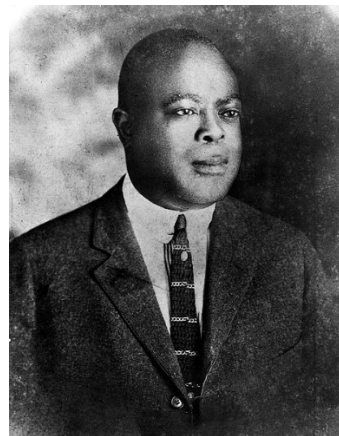

A Recipe for Jazz & The End of Storyville

- ragtime foundation, faster, swung rhythms, more improv, pianists & combos played dissonances, & call-and-response techniques/collective improvisation(terraced percussion from Latin America & Africa)[New Orleans]
- White music nerds, less improv[Dixieland]
 - Original Dixieland Jazz Band made first “jazz” recording(“Livery Stable Blues”) in 1917
- 1917, WWI Newton W.Baker wanted Storyville to close bc wants soldiers to be squeaky clean(shut down a lot of activity there and sucked for musicians' businesses)

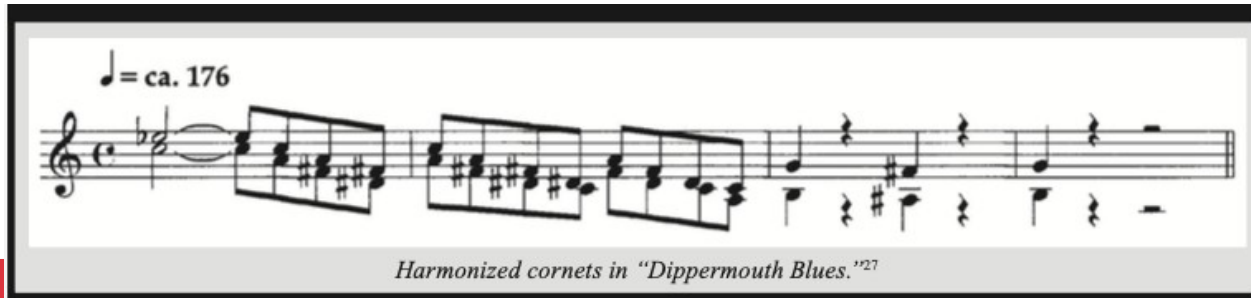

Heading North

- Traveling north & lost NO features[Chicago Jazz]
 - More 🧐iness
 - longer solos(smaller collective improv)
- Joe “King” Oliver(1881–1938), a 🎺 player, started in NO, & organized King Oliver’s Creole Jazz Band (featured other NO OGs)
- Inconvenient studio far from Chicago(couldn’t stay)

LISTENING COMPANION 2: “Dippermouth Blues” (1923) –Joe “King” Oliver

- Oliver(6&7) & Louis Armstrong(5) - cornet, Honoré Dutry - trombone, Johnny Dodds - clarinet, Warren Dodds - drums, Bill Johnson - banjo, & Lillian Hardin - piano
- NO(1, 2, 5, 8, & 9) & Chicago(Choruses 3, 4, 6, & 7)
- homophony; stop-time; twelve-bar blues; collective-improv ending; swing rhythm; wah-wah mute
- icon of early jazz & reference to later Jazz musicians

The image displays a musical score for the piece "Dippermouth Blues" by Joe "King" Oliver. The score is written for harmonized cornets in G major, 2/4 time. It begins with a tempo marking of "♩ = ca. 176". The notation features a treble clef and a key signature of one sharp (F#). The first measure is a whole rest, followed by a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, and then a series of chords. The score is presented within a black rectangular frame. Below the musical notation, the text "Harmonized cornets in 'Dippermouth Blues.'²⁷" is written in a small, italicized font.
